Quality

We consistently deliver quality services and products to our customers, which meet their needs, expectations and measured by international standards.

Professionalism

We take pride in our professional approach to our work and conduct, ensuring that our customers return to us with future business by competing fairly, rejecting bribery and corruption, and avoiding conflicts of interest.

Respect

We value and respect the needs and demands of our work colleagues, customers and business partners and encourage stakeholders to speak up when they think our values are not being upheld.

People

Our people are at the heart of the business. Recruiting, developing and retaining those who contribute most is key to the success of any business. Maintaining a respectful and inclusive working environment in order to deliver the services our customer's demand.

Responsibility

We are committed to being an efficient and responsible organisation, in all areas of the management of our business, in our environmental impact, social standing and governance. Caring for the environment and wellbeing of those around us.

Our Total Commitments

Protecting people

We are committed to supporting everyone involved in our business, fostering a safe and healthy work environment, treating others with respect, and protecting the environment.

Developing people

We are dedicated to fostering a workplace where everyone is encouraged to learn, grow, and advance their careers, while promoting diversity and inclusion

Improving the environment

We are dedicated to reducing the environmental impact of our operations and safeguarding the well-being of the communities where we operate.

Working together with our supply chain

We value strong, collaborative relationships with our supply chain partners and provide all suppliers with clear, consistent guidance on the standards of business conduct we expect.

Enhancing communities

We are committed to generating long-term social and economic benefits for all, safeguarding the health, safety, and environment of the communities where we operate, and conducting our business with integrity.

Accordingly, suppliers and representatives should comply with and seek to develop relationships with their own supply chains consistent with the principles set out below and should be compliant with all local laws and the following principles as a minimum.

Our principles are as follows:

1. Employment is freely chosen
2. Freedom of association and the right to collective bargaining are respected
3. Working conditions
4. Child labour shall not be used
5. Land Acquisition
6. Living wages are paid
7. Working hours are not excessive
8. No discrimination is practised
9. Regular employment is provided
10. No harsh or inhumane treatment is allowed
11. Confidentiality
12. No bribery or corruption will be tolerated
13. Conflict of interests
14. Environmental management
15. Sustainable Procurement
16. Quality
17. Audit and termination of agreements
18. No counterfeit products will be accepted

1. Employment is freely chosen

There is no forced or compulsory labour in any form, including bonded, trafficked, or prison labour. Workers are not required to lodge 'deposits' or their identity papers with their employer and are free to leave their employer after reasonable notice.

2. Freedom of association and the right to collective bargaining are respected

Workers, without distinction, have the right to join or form trade unions of their own choosing and to bargain collectively. The employer adopts an open attitude towards the activities of trade unions and their organisational activities. Workers, representatives are not discriminated against and have access to carry out their representative functions in the workplace. Where the right to freedom of association and collective bargaining is restricted under law, the employer facilitates, and does not hinder, the development of parallel means for independent and free association and bargaining.

3. Working conditions

A safe and hygienic working environment shall be provided, bearing in mind the prevailing knowledge of the industry and of any specific hazards. Adequate steps shall be taken to prevent accidents and injury to health arising out of, associated with, or occurring in the course of work, by minimising, so far as is reasonably practicable, the causes of hazards inherent in the working environment. Workers shall receive regular and recorded health and safety training and such training shall be repeated for new or reassigned workers.

Access to clean toilet facilities and to potable water, and, if appropriate, sanitary facilities for food storage shall be provided. Accommodation, where provided, shall be clean, safe, and meet the basic needs of the workers.

Suppliers must also ensure that appropriate training is given to employees in safety practices and procedures, including fire protection.

The company observing the code shall assign responsibility for health and safety to a senior management representative.

4. Child labour shall not be used

There shall be no recruitment of child labour.

Companies shall develop or participate in and contribute to policies and programmes which provide for the transition of any child found to be performing child labour to enable her or him to attend and remain in quality education until no longer a child.

Children and young persons under 18 shall not be employed at night or in hazardous conditions.

Policies and procedures shall conform to the provisions of the relevant International Labour Organization (ILO) standards.

A child is defined as any person less than 15 years of age, unless local minimum age law stipulates a higher age for work or mandatory schooling, in which case the higher age would apply. If, however, local minimum age law is set at 14 years of age in accordance with developing country exceptions under ILO Convention 138, the lower age will apply.

A young person or young worker is defined as any worker over the age of a child as defined above and under the age of 18.

5. Land Acquisition

We adhere to the principle of free, prior and informed consent of all communities when acquiring land. The rights of communities and traditional peoples to maintain access to land and natural resources will be recognised and respected.

6. Living wages are paid

Wages and benefits paid for a standard working week meet, at a minimum, national legal standards or industry benchmark standards, whichever is higher. In any event wages should always be enough to meet basic needs and to provide some discretionary income.

All workers shall be provided with written and understandable information about their employment conditions in respect to wages before they enter employment and about the particulars of their wages for the pay period concerned each time that they are paid.

Deductions from wages as a disciplinary measure shall not be permitted nor shall any deductions from wages not provided for by national law be permitted without the expressed permission of the worker concerned. All disciplinary measures should be recorded.

7. Working hours are not excessive

Working hours comply with national laws and benchmark industry standards, whichever affords greater protection.

In any event, workers shall not on a regular basis be required to work in excess of 48 hours per week and shall be provided with at least one day off for every seven-day period on average. Overtime shall be voluntary, shall not exceed 12 hours per week, shall not be demanded on a regular basis and shall always be compensated at a premium rate.

8. No discrimination is practised

There is no discrimination in hiring, compensation, access to training, promotion, termination or retirement based on race, caste, national origin, religion, age, disability, gender, marital status, sexual orientation, union membership or political affiliation.

Additionally, organisations must be committed to fair and inclusive procurement practices within their supply chains, regardless of background or characteristics. This includes actively preventing discrimination thus creating a diverse and inclusive supply base that reflects the broader community, fostering innovation, and enhancing business performance.

9. Regular employment is provided

To every extent possible work performed must be on the basis of a recognised employment relationship established through national law and practice.

Obligations to employees under labour or social security laws and regulations arising from the regular employment relationship shall not be avoided through the use of labour-only contracting, subcontracting, or home-working arrangements, or through apprenticeship schemes where there is no real intent to impart skills or provide regular employment, nor shall any such obligations be avoided through the excessive use of fixed-term contracts of employment.

10. No harsh or inhumane treatment is allowed

Physical abuse or discipline, the threat of physical abuse, sexual or other harassment and verbal abuse or other forms of intimidation shall be prohibited.

11. Confidentiality

The confidentiality of information exchanged in the course of business must be respected and never be used for illegal purposes or for individual gain. False information must not be given in the course of commercial negotiations. Suppliers, representatives and their employees must comply with all applicable Data Protection regulations and laws. If no such data protection laws apply or are of a lesser standard to that prescribed in the UK General Data Protection Regulation, suppliers, representatives and their employees must adhere to the UK General Data Protection Regulations. A copy of our Data Protection Policy is available on request.

12. No bribery or corruption will be tolerated

The offering, paying, soliciting or accepting of bribes or kickbacks, including facilitation payments, is strictly prohibited.

A bribe may involve giving or offering any form of gift, consideration, reward or advantage to someone in business or government in order to obtain or retain a commercial advantage or to induce or reward the recipient for acting improperly or where it would be improper for the recipient to accept the benefit.

Bribery can also take place where the offer or giving of a bribe is made by or through a third party, e.g. an agent, representative or intermediary.

Some examples of bribes are as follows. This is not an exhaustive list:

- lavish gifts, meals, entertainment or travel expenses, particularly where they are disproportionate, frequent or provided in the context of ongoing business negotiations;
- the uncompensated use of company services, facilities or property;
- cash payments; loans, loan guarantees or other credit;
- the provision of a benefit, such as an educational scholarship or healthcare, to a member of the family of a potential customer, public or government official;
- providing a subcontract to a person connected to someone involved in awarding the main contract; and
- engaging a local company owned by a member of the family of a potential customer, public or government official.

Facilitation payments are small payments or fees requested by government officials to speed up or facilitate the performance of routine government action (such as the provision of a visa or customs clearance). Such payments are strictly prohibited.

Suppliers, representatives and their employees must comply with all applicable anti-bribery and corruption laws. If no such anti-bribery or corruption laws apply or are of a lesser standard to that prescribed in the UK Bribery Act 2010, suppliers, representatives and their employees must adhere to the UK Bribery Act 2010.

Suppliers and representatives shall have in place anti-corruption and bribery procedures designed to prevent employees or persons associated with its business from committing offences of bribery or corruption. Suppliers and representatives will properly implement these procedures into their business and review them regularly to ensure that they are operating effectively.

13. Conflicts of Interest

We expect suppliers to mitigate appropriately against any real, potential or perceived conflict of interest through their work with government. A supplier with a position of influence gained through a contract should not use that position to unfairly disadvantage any other supplier or reduce the potential for future competition, for example by creating a technical solution that locks in the supplier's own goods or services.

It is expected that any potential conflict of interest should be reported on, its potential impact on the decision-making or integrity of the process, and any mitigation plan.

14. Environmental management

We support and encourage operating practices, that are sustainable. The supplier and representatives will continually strive towards improving efficiency and sustainability of their operations which will include water conservation programmes.

The following aspects of environmental management will be included in the supplier assessment:

- there should be a company environment representative;
- the company should be aware of and able to demonstrate compliance with all current legislation that may affect its activities;
- the company should conduct an environmental review and consider all aspects of its products and services;
- any enforcement, improvement or prohibition notices served on the site within the last three years.

15. Sustainable Procurement

We expect our suppliers to actively support the government in meeting its legal and contractual obligations, particularly in relation to environmental sustainability and Net Zero objectives. This includes contributing to the successful delivery of wider policy goals underpinning the contract, such as those set out in the Greening Government Commitments, the 25 Year Environment Plan, and the Government's legally binding target to achieve Net Zero greenhouse gas emissions by 2050.

Suppliers are expected to demonstrate a clear and measurable commitment to Net Zero by understanding, monitoring, and reducing the environmental impacts of their operations and supply chains. We may request suppliers provide us with transparent, accurate, information on environmental performance, which may include resource usage, emissions, and supply chain risks such as raw material security.

16. Quality

Any goods supplied shall be without fault and of the best available design, quality, material and workmanship, be fit for any purpose held out by the supplier and representatives or made known to the supplier and representatives or for which they are commonly used and shall conform in all respects with any order and specification and/or patterns or samples supplied or advised by the supplier and representatives.

Any services supplied shall be provided by appropriately qualified and trained personnel, with due care and diligence, to such high standard of quality as is reasonable for us to expect in all circumstances and shall conform in all respects with any order.

17. Audit and termination of agreements

We reserve the rights to verify the supplier's and representative's compliance with the Code. Where supplier and representative reviews or audits demonstrate shortcomings in any of these areas, the supplier and representative should strive to implement a time-bound programme of improvement (remediation) leading to conformance.

In the event that we become aware of any actions or conditions not in compliance with the Code, we reserve the right to request corrective actions. We reserve the right to terminate an agreement with any supplier and representatives that does not comply with the Code.

18. No counterfeit products will be accepted

Product counterfeiting is a form of consumer fraud and strictly prohibited.

The production and trafficking of counterfeit goods poses a significant health and safety threat to consumers. It also impacts the economic growth of legitimate businesses and consumers through lost revenue, downtime, and replacement costs.

It is your responsibility to source and sell only authentic products. Prohibited products include bootlegs, fakes or pirated copies of products or content; products that have been illegally replicated, reproduced or manufactured, and products that infringe another party's intellectual property rights. If you sell or supply inauthentic products, we will immediately remove you from our approved list of suppliers.

Failure to observe the principles above may result in your exclusion from the site and from further work for the company.
